AUTO RAMS BRIDGE INTO SILVER CREEK

Two Negroes Have Miracule Escape When They Smaab Car Into Steel Structure

That Buick touring car that Burton Roberts sold Jailer W. H. left of the car.

The two negroes escaped with their lives but seem lucky to have done so. They hit the end of the big steel structure an awful blow. The bridge has four spans and is about 70 feet in length, but the ramming they gave it, pushed it off its foundation and messed things up so that traffic to and ing the curve at the bridge, and evidently not expecting it, were unable to get it straightened out into which agreement it was origfor the center of the brige in time inally expected the United States to navigate it safely. The men would enter. the car when the end of the bridge went down, and had to swim out. Neither was seriously hurt, for a wonder. Many thought it a miracle that they were not instantly killed. The

If You Miss Your Daily Register, This May Be Cause

Ouite a number who have been receiving the Daily Register as correspondents have forgotten to write letters for some time. Their names are being removed from the paper's list, as it is impossible to send it to those who do not write for it, at least once a week. A careful check is being kept on all news letters from the country correspondents, and only those who render some service can reeive the paper.

The fearful cost of white paper makes necessary the discontinu-ance of all free copies, complimentaries, etc., and the stopping of every paper the minute its subscription has expired.

The Daily Register hopes to be able to exist without increasing its yearly subscription rate which is, by mail $3 a year. However, the rate for shorter term subscriptions will be as follows: Per month 50c; 2 months 75c; three months $1; six months $2-all cash-in-advance, paper stopping promptly when time has expired.

At $3 a year by mail or 10c a week in town, the Daily Register is the cheapest daily paper you can buy anywhere, and it gives you the news from all over Madison county, all this part of Kentucky, and the state and nation, at just about half the price of any other daily paper. Unless the Dily Register has the closest cooperation of its friends in these matters, it cannot survive the constantly increasing cost of paper and production in every item. Now is certainly the time to show whether you want a daily paper published right here at home that endeavors to give you all the news, and costs you about half what the Lexington or other city papers charge you.

Black Pardoned Youtsey

But little notice was paid to a pardon granted by Gov. Black during the closing days of his administration. It was the pardon of Henry E. Youtsey, formerly of Winchester, who was con-victed in connection with the nurder of Governor William Goebel of Kentucky 20 years ago. He was made a free man, restored to all rights of citizenship after 18 years servitude. Gov. James D. It will be recalled that Youtsey was the only one of the Goebel murder conspirators who was not pardoned by Gov. Augustus E. Willson, in 1907. The republicans at Frankfort sought to make Youtsey the scape goat and he was kept in prison after the others had been released until recently paroled. It is probable that his pardon was given by Gov. Black to prevent him being sent back to the penitenbeing sent back to the pentientiary by the incoming republican administration as many leaders of that party contended that Youtsey and not Jim Howard, fired the shot that killed Goebel.

in a much more convenient and agreeable form. The chief laxative constituent of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is Egyptian senna (cassia acutifolia) gathered in the Egyptian Soudan. This grade is seldom sold at retail. It is, however, recognized as first in the U. S. Pharmacopeia because of its freedom from griping and its cleaner action on the intestines, and because it does not loss in affect affect. cause it does not lose its effect after

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Egyptian senua is combined with pepsin making an exceptionally valuable tenic-laxative in dyspepsia and other disturbances of the stomach and bowels. It has been on the market since 1892 and many thousands of people who formerly bought an inferior grade of senua at retail now buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for 50c and $1 a large bottle. It is sold in all drug stores.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caliwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over on illion bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. Large firms that ship thousands of parcels have studied this problem scientifically. They declare that the safety of a parcel against damge in transit depends almost entirely on how securely it is packed and wrapped. Therefore be careful how you prepare your parcel if you want it to reach its destination in good condition.

PUBLIC SALE

On Friday, December 19, 1919 at 10 o'clock a. m., I will offer for sale the following described property, towit: About 90 acres of land, subject to survey, lo-cated on the Berea-Kingston pike (Dixie Highway), and county road on the east and west sides, 3 1-2 miles north of Berca and 3 1-2 miles south of Kingston. Said farm is known as the Wm. G. Baker homestead.

This is an ideal farm; produces splendid crops; has plenty of good water upon it; is well fenced and contains about ten acres of good timber that will do to saw. If you are looking for a nome in a splendid community, with all the advantages of good roads and fine schools, this is your opportunity.

This land will be divided into two tracts of about equal size and offered for sale, and then it will be offered as a whole, and the way it brings the most money, will be accepted.

out the country on account of the coal situation and to warn them that unless they mail holiday parcels early, delivery by Christmas will be doubtful.

Postmaster Stockton also gave out the following statement respecting the packing necessary to insure safe delivery of parcels containing various fragile articles:

New Haven, Conn.—"For two years I suffered with a female weakness, pains in my back and painful periods, and I was so weak and tired that I was not able to do my work. A friend told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it gave me great relief. My pains left me and I am now able to do my work and feel fine. You can publishmy testimonial and if your Vegetable Compound does others as much good as it has me I will be very much pleased."—Mrs. CHARLES E. MORGAN, 37 Sea Street, New Haven, Conn.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg-etable Compound is so successful is because it contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act directly on the female organism.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years experience is et your service.

Agin the Guvment By C. M. MORRISON.

Somehow or other old Billy Gilligan States back about the time of the panic of 1873. He got the idea that the old U. S. A. had cold-decked him somehow or other, so he sort of be-gan to live by himself over on his old place, that was mostly grown up with briars and unpruned apple trees.

He had fought in an Illinois regiment in the Civil War. But for 40 years he had been pointed out as a sort of a neighborhood curiosity, "the man who wouldn't apply for a pension." He would froth at the mouth every time he saw a tax collector, and it grew to be one battle to get a dime out of him for the "uses and purposes of the state."

He stood off every " driver" that came along during the late unpleas-antness, and they finally let him alone. He stayed holed up right along. He actually didn't know when the war began or when it ended. He used to come out of that tangle of an old place that he called home and go back in without saying a dozen words to anybody and what he did say was mostly

Nobody knows how he first learned that one of his sister's boys had been over there and had come back with a medal or two, one from the war department of the United States and another one that the French general pinned on him one frosty morning over n the Meuse-Argonne sector, where so many Americans lost their lives.

And nobody knows when old Billy Gilligan got hold of that lad and carried him off to the old rattletrap of a house back of the apple trees and the brush and sat there all night by the old fireplace learning that there had on about the biggest war that the stårs ever looked down on.

It was long about Christmas when old Billy rounded up the lad, seemingly. He kept him up there for a day or so, just naturally soaking in every thing that the boy told him. It must have been an awful jolt to get the full story and the full horror and the understanding of all those anxious days that the rest of the world-had been trying to stand up under a day at a time for the full four years.

It is a fair guess that the danger that the one lad had gone through, the horror of the U-boats, the landing in a strange country, the desperate pushes against a desperate and a strange enmust have stirred the old man out of his calloused shell that the years had built around him.

Seemingly it stirred something in his old heart and brain that had been slowly dying since the days of 1865. He had been a man without a country all these years. And while he had been up there the nation, the same nation for which he had fought a full half century ago, had been going ahead and growing and extending its power and ts principles. He must have done a lot of mighty solemnly serious thinking for a day or so. The boy had gone back to his left alone to sit before the ancient fireplace and meditate on what had come to pass.

His thinking took a strange turn. It happened to be Christmas Eve when he came into town. That was not a habit of his. It is doubtful if the oldest inhabitant recalled seeing old Billy on the streets at that particular time. He came like a man in a hurry and with his mind made up, and came up to the post office steps. There was a big crowd there, and he hesitated a minute and crossed over to the bank. "Have you got any blanks for me to take out Liberty Bonds?" he said when he had reached the window. The assistant cashier rubbed his eyes and stared. "Why no, Mr. Gilligan," he stammered, "the loans are all over a long time ago. Didn't you know

"No-o," faltered the old man at the window. "I didn't. You see—well, I have been a fool. I didn't understand about this war and I wouldn't let any-body tell me. Now, if it ain't too late I want your help. You see, I heard a ot of things recently.

That boy, George, he is back and he has been telling me about this whole thing. I simply didn't know, that was il. And now the old government has ade a man and a soldier and a better American than I am out of him. And t put a medal on him, a medal that "I tell you, sir, that it is a square government and the best that there s on this earth. It came in and it stopped the Kaiser, and now men can go on living and having a chance at happiness. I fought against slavery that boy and other boys have been fighting against the same thing. The government hadn't changed. It was

me. And now, sir, isn't there some-thing where a few dollars will help?" The cashier thought a minute and brought from the safe an engraved slip of paper. "I'll teil you," said he. "Here is a Treasury Savings Certifi-cate. The government will sell you this for about $900 and it will be worth $1,000 one of these days. Do you want that much?"

The old man fumbled a minute, counted out a roll of bills and took the certificate. "I'm no longer agin the guverment," he said as he turned to go. "I'm an American and I don't care who knows it."
